"Keep Your Head To The Sky"

The Rites of Passage project is an early intervention tool to prevent drug and alcohol abuse among African American youth, ages 12 through 18 years old. The project is designed to help the youth break the cycle of teenage pregnancy, alcohol and other drug abuse, criminal mischief, and possible under education or to lower drop-out status. The program is conducted to prepare our youth to think positive and develop habits that will lead them to success in life.
